Inspector Boardman directed a number of

Mr. Cooper, according to the attorney, persisted in expectorating in the aisle southwest, fell on the sidewalk at the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and 7th street last night and cut his head. He refused to go to a hospital for treatment.

Mr. Barker suggested that persons who insisted on doing as Mr. Cooper had done should ride in a cattle car. Mr. Cooper returned to the smoking compartment. When Mr. Barker went there later for the purpose of preparing for dinner, counsel recited. Mr. Cooper resumed the discussion and, with an oath, struck Mr. Barker a blow in the face, knocking his spectacles across the apartment. In behalf of the defendant Attorney Davis announced that the 31st of May, 1900, Mr. Cooper had just left a sick bed, having been at the point of death. While in the Pullman car he was minding his own busi-ness. The same was not true of Mr. Barker, who took the liberty of expressing himself freely regarding southern people, their conditions and habits. Mr. Cooper did expectorate on the floor, but not in the aisle. He did not use the cuspidor in his section for the reason that a fellow assenger had his foot on it. Mr. Barker, according to the defense, complained to the conductor. The latter made an investigation, but could not discover anything calling for action on his part. Mr. Barker declared in an offensive manner, the counsel stated, that Mr. Coop-er's place was in a cattle car. Mr. Cooper, explaining that he couldn't resent the im-pertinence then, as ladies were present, gave notice that he would see Mr. Barker "Mr. Cooper then proceeded to the smok-

Mr. Barker followed him to the seat and resumed the lecture about habits. Mr. Cooper with his open hand thereupon slapped Mr. Barker. "That, gentlemen of the jury," concluded

Mr. Davis, "Is the substance of this tempest in a teapot."

The introduction of testimony in behalf plaintiff, consisting for the most part of affidavits of persons who were on the car the day of the occurrence, was next begun. The hearing will not be concluded to-

> -The Sothern-Harned production of "Ham-let" will be presented at the National Theaer on next Monday evening. It is con-reded by even hypercritical playgoers to be the finest Shakespearean revival seen in this country since the Henry Irving mag-nificent spectacles. It was the general opinion, despite the laudatory results of the presentation, that it could not be more than a suces d'estime; but the unexpected big a financial success as the artistic triumph merited. In this nineteenth century, three hundred years after its original production at the Globe Theater, London, 'Hamlet" is the fashion, and to the modern playgoer, in a great measure, a nov-elty. Whether it is the modern treatment in the delivery of the text, the massing of auxiliaries, the imposing pageantry, the truth of color and effect, the naturalness of ensemble and the grandeur of the mis-enscene, or the craving of the theatergoer to-day for more intellectual entertainment, the fact remains that "Hamlet" this season is a craze. The opinion of this city on the performance and the production need not be blased by New York or Boston, but it is fair to say that Sothern in those cities created quite a furor by his splendid per-formance. He was compared to Edwin Booth, and it was said that all his previous efforts in romantic drama, in "The Prisoner of Zenda," "An Enemy to the King" and of Zenda, An Enemy to the King and his "D'Artagan," paled almost to insignificance by the side of his impersonation of the Prince of Denmark. It will mean standing room only on Monday night of a certainty. Miss Harned's performance of Ophelia is also a matter of great interest. Her former successes have fully justified the higher flight she has made. The massive and elaborate nature of the production of "Hamlet" causes the necessity of the cur-

> LAFAYETTE SQUARE OPERA HOUSE. -"Sowing the Wind" will be the attraction at this popular house next week. It is one of Sidney Grundy's strongest and best dramatic efforts, and he is one of England's fcremost dramatists. "Sowing the Wind" is a strong drama of the human heart, with an intense sentimental interest centered in two young people, who love each other and whose path, fate decrees, shall be every-thing but smooth. A shadow on the young girl's life, and a determined father, with a meddlesome friend, on the young lover's side, gives ample opportunities for intense situations. Mr. Ormonde will essay the role of the widower Brabazon, whose adopted son, Ned Annesley (Mr. Wyngate), falls desperately in love with Rosamond (Miss Haswell), an opera singer of renown. Owing to the uncertainty of the young lady's antecedents, the father, assisted by his selfappointed adviser, his old chum Watkins (Mr. Rogers) does everything in his power keep the young couple apart. A good deal of bright comedy is interwoven in the plot, supplied principally by Miss Macintosh and Miss Scott, as the frivolous widow and her more frivolous daughter, respec-tively. J. T. Sullivan will play the prin-ciple villain, the dissipated Lord Petworth.

ard Cursitor. Mr. Craven and Mr. Fred THE WORK OF A VANDAL

ROSE COGHLAN IN VAUDEVILLE .-The principal feature of next week's bill at Chase's Theater is Rose Coghlan, the eminent dramatic actress, whose reign on the American stage has covered a decade of years. Her admirers are legion, and it is expected that they will crowd Chase's to overflowing. She is assisted by one of the foremost leading men, Louis Massen, formerly the principal actor at the Madison Square Theater, New York city, during its most brilliant period under A. M. Palmer. The others in her support are especially competent. Miss Coghlan will present for the first time her one-act play called "Ace of Trumps," in which she gives evidence of genius as a playwright quite as unmistakably as did her brother, the late Charles Coghlan during the last years of his life. It revives her famous role in "Forget-Me-Not." Another fortunate and agreeable presentation will be that of Sydney Grant, in his monologue and imitations. Little Frances Keppler, the dancing wonder, will provide a specialty that should be especially agreeable to the juvenile patrons. Max Cincinnati, the juggler, whose fame in Europe led to his importation to this country, is the fourth promising attraction. Louise St. Clair, billed as "A Woman of Few Words," will charmingly entertain with bright and humorous observations on men, women and the world of today. The Bio-graph picture machine will exhibit twelve new views and two other novel acts complete the bill.

"A YOUNG WIFE."-"A Young Wife," that comes to the Academy next week, presents a cast of characters that includes Adolph Jackson, who was the leading man of Frohman's "Little Minister" company last season; John T. Nicholson, who has several melodramatic companies; John L. Wooderson, stage manager and one of the principal actors of Stuart Robson's company; Mark Fenton, last season playing an important part with Madame Mod-jeska's company; C. B. Craig, Charles Harris. Also important members of the the-atrical profession, Selma Herman, the leading lady, headed her own company for two seasons; Miss Edna G. Brothers, late of Mrs. Fiske's company, and Miss Alberta Lee of Frohman's "Girl I Left Behind Me." Besides those mentioned there are several others who are well-known. All the scenery effects, properties and draperies that were used during the long run at the Fourteenth Street Theater, New York, will be DAINTY PAREE BURLESQUERS .- The attraction for the coming week at the Bijou Theater will be the Dainty Paree Burlesquers. This company is made up of the very best talent that can be procured, all of the performers being artists in their lines. The management has spared no expense to make this one of the leading attractions on the road. The production is handsomely staged, while the scenic features are gorgeous. The performance opens with a funny skit, "A Day's Vacation," and is followed by an ollo introducing some of the best vaudeville artists in the country, including Carroll and Ellston, comedy entertainers; the Gra-hams, America's leading song illustrators; Batchellor Sisters, refined melange of music, singing and dancing; the Murphys, comedy, acrobatic sketch artists, and the three Sisters Leon, in novelty acts.

THE UTOPIAN BURLESQUERS .- A special feature of T. W. Dinkins' the Utopian Burlesquers, the attraction at Kernan's next week, will be Chuck Connors, "the mayor of Chinatown," and his company of typical Bowery characters. This is calculated to prove a treat in addition to an entertainment which comes up to the expectations of patrons of burlesque and promises to surpass former efforts of the same organization. The show possesses the merit of freshness, and includes Frobel and Ruge, Odell and Perry, the Whiting sisters, the three Hickman brothers and Garnold and Gilmore. A series of living pictures is promised, Lubin's original cineograph will introduce new views, and the first part of the burlesque is lively and up to date.

VARIOUS ARTICLES IN A PARLOR WANTONLY DESTROYED.

Mysterious Occurrence This Morning at the Residence of Mr. Judson F. Cull.

Complaint was made to Inspector Boardman of the detective corps today of the outrageous conduct of some unknown person at the home of Mr. Judson T. Cull this morning. Mr. Cull is president of the Lawyers' Title and Guaranty Company, and lives at No. 114 2d street southeast. His house was entered between 7 and 8:39 this morning, and the intruder used a knife or a pair of scissors in the parlor to destroy various articles. A portiere, silk piano scarf and pillows were slashed. Mr. Cull estimates the damage at about $100.

It is believed that the work was done by a crank, and not by a person who had a grievance against the occupants of the house. So far as Mr. Cull knows, there is nobody who has a grudge against any member of his family. Mr. Cull and his children were at home at the time the children were at home at the time the depredation was committed, and the colored woman employed as cook was in the kitchen preparing breakfast. When she reported for her day's work at 7 o'clock in the morning the cutting had not been done. The front door, it is stated, was left unlocked, and the slasher had no trouble in effecting an entrance. the family answered the breakfast about 8:30 o'clock they discovered the work of the vandal and started out to make an investigation.

It is believed to be likely that the vandal began his work by slashing the portiere. A handsome silk-embroidered piano scarf had been cut in a number of pieces and scat-tered about the room. The pillows had been taken from the couch and thrown on the floor, while one of them was cut and the feathers placed in small piles about the room. There was a wreath worked in the cover of the pillow and only the center of the decoration was cut out. The silk coverings of six chairs were mutilated, while a large fern was cut off near the root. Several bunches of the fern leaves were placed about the room. On the piane were several valuable ornaments and they had been placed on the floor without being damaged. This was done, it is believed, because the breaking of them would probably have attracted the attention of some of the occupants of the house.

The work of the vandal resembles in some respects the work done here several years ago by John Taylor, colored, was more familiarly known as "Jack the Slasher." He did his work during the Slasher." He did his work during the early hours of the morning, before day-break, or late at night, and when he found it convenient he carried away articles of silverware and cutlery. In the case this morning nothing was stolen, although there was plenty of silverware and a number of valuable ornaments in the rooms. Detective Horne has been assigned to the case and the fifth precinct policemen are also endeavoring to solve the mystery. It is the opinion of the police that a woman did the cutting. Inspector Boardman is making every effort possible to apprehend the vandal, and the police of the various precincts have been notified to be on the

RECEIVES FATAL INJURIES.

Cornice Worker Falls From Scaffold at Government Printing Office. John T. Woodfield, a cornice worker, sixty-five years old, who lived at 134 7th street northeast, fell yesterday afternoon from a scaffold at the government printing office building which is in course of erection and received fatal injuries. The accident occurred about 3 o'clock and the victim died at the Emergency Hospital two hours later.

Mr. Woodfield was moving about on the scaffold at the fifth floor, when, in some way, he lost his footing and fell. It is believed that one of the boards of the scaf-fold turned when he stepped upon it and precipitated him to the ground. He was unconscious when several fellow workmen went to his assistance. No time was lost in getting him to the hospital, where the doctors saw at a glance that his injuries were necessarily fatal. He had sustained a fracture of the skull, one leg had been broken and one shoulder disfocated. Coroner Nevitt viewed the body at the hospital, learned of the circumstances of the affair and gave a certificate of accidental death. The body was removed from the hospital by Boteler & Scott, undertakers, and prepared for burial.

Mr. Woodfield was a native of Marlboro'. Md., but had lived in this city since 1861. He was prominent in Knights of Pythias circles and was also connected with the Golden Eagle organization. The deceased is survived by his wife and six grown
